

The apple trees are blooming at Mars Hill, and supper is almost done, when a knock comes at the door. William and Ann Rowley don't know the tired stranger standing in the English evening air – but they let him in anyway.

Some visitors change everything. This is the story of one night, one family, and a light that never quite goes out – the kind you'll want your children to carry with them.

Elder Woodruff Teaches The Family

Elder Woodruff Teaches The Family

A Rowley Family Story